Rev. E. O. Taylor, A. M., D. D., of Boston, Mass., will deliver a series of lectures in the various churches, beginning to-morrow The course is on "Good Citizenship and Scientific Temperance." It is conceded that no phase of temperance is more vital, none more hopeful, none more bitterly fought, yet none so little understood by the masses, as that of its scientific aspect. On this subject, Dr. Taylor has achieved both national and international distinction as a lecturer, and text books author. His discussions are purely educational, simple enough for a child, and absolutely devoid of partisan politics. No admission will be charged and the committee ask for him the widest possible bearing on the part of old and young.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) BOYDTON, VA., Nov. 25,-Bishop A. M. Randolph has been upset in his appointments in this section by a thrilling experience while trying to cross the Roanoke River. He had an appointment to preach here at noon yesterday, and attempted to cross the Roanoke River to meet his appointment, but a very high wind was blowing, and the boat was blown a considerable distance down stream, Two hours were lost in the return, and a second effort was successful. The bishop reached here in time to hold the confirmation service in the afternoon and preached at night. He had a large congregation at both services.

The bishop dwelt at considerable length on the growing evin of divorces. He said even in this good old Commonwealth there were twenty divorces now to where there was one fifty years ago. There were twelve persons confirmed. He had sk appointments in Mecklenburg and has confirmed quite a number of persons.
